

[Ebook free] Iris Folding Papers: For Cards, Scrapbooks, Altered Art More (Design Originals)

Iris Folding Papers: For Cards, Scrapbooks, Altered Art More (Design Originals)

Suzanne McNeill

ePub | *DOC | audiobook | ebooks | Download PDF

Download

Read Online

#962041 in Books 2004-01-01 Original language: English PDF # 1 10.72 x .5 x 8.391, .28 #File Name: 157421254020 pages | File size: 39.Mb

Suzanne McNeill : Iris Folding Papers: For Cards, Scrapbooks, Altered Art More (Design Originals) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Iris Folding Papers: For Cards, Scrapbooks, Altered Art More (Design Originals):

9 of 9 people found the following review helpful. A library of papers for cards and other projects By mountain girl There are (at least) two schools of creative thinking about iris folding: one is using papers of many colors with the same basic print or design (rainbow effect), the second is using papers of one-ish color but many different tiny patterns, creating a more monochromatic design. This book belongs to the second group. You can easily make iris creations in the first group using the huge 180-sheet paper pads (NOT cardstock) sold at big-box craft stores, or if you carefully shop the individual sheet paper racks at these stores. Both styles are beautiful, but you get the chance to use the rainbow type on more varieties of card occasions. That said, these papers are delightful because the pages provide some from the entire color-wheel and the strips of print designs (use a paper-cutter to trim them crisply) are the perfect size to be featured in cards. There are tips, instructions, and one "beginner's" pattern for an iris aperture included here, but there are hundreds of free shaped (circle, heart, oval, box, animals and even letters) templates for openings available on the web, so that is not a problem. Iris folding is a wonderful way to frame small pictures or other treasured objects (charms?) as well as just decorate the front of a card or scrapbook page. I did one with my daughter's year of graduation at the center--it's your choice as to what to feature. Note to teachers and recreation or Girl Scout group leaders: there are enough papers here (24 pages--6 of them pink) that they could furnish supplies for an afternoon's activity, when supplemented by tape, scissors, cardboard for your template patterns (from shirts washed and packaged by a laundry is perfect weight), and white foundation cards and envelopes for their creations. Help give birth to a new generation of card-makers!

2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. Okay but not great
By Andi I just started making Iris Folding cards so this was the first paper I found. It's okay but the colors are not very vibrant. Have since found Origami Paper with better colors and patterns; inexpensive wrapping paper also works well, with a ton of choices.

2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. Tried the Dutch folding technique with tissue paper
By Customer With my girls scouts(6th grade) and they loved it but these papers are ever so much better. Plenty of free patterns on the Internet, so no worries about not having directions to follow. Papers are nice quality and almost impossible to find many shades of the same color anywhere else.....even origami papers are not as good as this, plus the origami patterns are mostly bold,. These patterns are the right scale and intensity. Lots of fun, worth the money if you want to try iris paper folding.

The wonderful paper designs included in this book were created to coordinate with many papers currently on the market

About the Author Suzanne McNeill is often known as a Trendsetter for arts and crafts. Dedicated to hands-on creativity, she constantly tests, experiments and invents something new and exciting. Suzanne is the woman behind Design Originals, a publishing company dedicated to all things fun and creative. She is a designer, artist, columnist, TV personality, publisher, art instructor, author and lover of everything hands-on. She was the 2011 winner of the Craft and Hobby Association's Industry Achievement Award.