Patterns from more than two decades of Knitter's Magazine are presented in this collection of irresistible hand knits for boys and girls. The designs represent a selection of the best the magazine has to offer from its back issues, some of which have been largely unavailable since first published. Ranging in skill from beginner to prize winner, knitters can outfit young ones from head to toe with hats, socks, and everything in between. In addition to photos of finished projects, detailed illustrations guide knitters through each part of the more complicated steps, and the techniques used in the designs are explained in a handy appendix. The outfits are styled to fit and flatter children from ages two through 10, and whether it's dresses, cardigans, or caps, the playful patterns in this showcase will keep the purl rolling.

Sept 06 The 19 customisable projects in this book are tons of fun to knit and your special little one is sure to be thrilled to wear any of them. Kids - A Knitter's Dozen beautifully shows that the only limit to great knitted garments is your imagination: try a stripy sweater with cute glove-shaped pockets, a bright jumper with sun and heart motifs, or even matching cardigans for a child and their favourite teddy! Each pattern has clear instructions and a difficulty rating, so you can gauge which ones to tackle, as well as extra ideas for personalising your little one's new garment. This is a book you'll return to again and again when you want a knit that's colourful and full of novelty value for the special kids in your life.
