Patrick Lennon : Tale Spinning before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Tale Spinning:

A collection of short stories by an author who has a unique way of looking at life and finding the right words to express a vivid image of the scene and unforgettable characters. "Fat Albert" is an award-winning story about a fisherman who catches a ride he will never forget. "The Great Train Robbery", also an award-winning story, looks at two hobos who admire Jesse James and plan to rob a train in Key West. "A Fish Tail" is the story of a teenage boy battling a blue marlin during a fishing tournament. The collection includes fourteen stories.

About the Author After completing his enlistment in the United States Air Force as a pilot, Patrick Lennon began a thirty-year career in healthcare spending twenty-years as a hospital CEO. An avid fisherman, he won several marlin and sailfish tournaments in Florida and the Bahamas. He and his wife enjoyed island life and bought a small hotel in the Bahamas, which will be another story some day. The laid-back life style inspired him to start writing short stories. Literary and commercial magazines published ten of his stories. The Key West Theatre Festival selected his play "Oh, Danny Boy the Pipes Have Played." "Paradise Lost" is his sixth novel and it has been accepted by the Pulitzer Prize Board for consideration in 2007. A former member of the Dramatists Guild in New York and past president of the Key West Writers Guild, he is the current president of the Treasure Coast Writers Guild. He and his wife, Marilyn, reside on the Treasure Coast of Florida.
